FAQ

More Resources Reminders · https://izymes.com/docs/faq-2/

Can I still use Reminders in my Server instance?

Hopefully you are aware of the depreciation of Bitbucket Server app licenses as of 15th of February 2023 (more: Atlassian Server end of life (sale/support) information). If you are not yet transitioning over to Bitbucket Cloud or DataCenter, you will still be able to continue using, renew and update your Reminders app in your Bitbucket Server instance.

You can continue to use Reminders with your current Reminders server license until 15/Feb/2024 - You can still obtain a Reminders license, and receive updates and new features as you are used to.

We have tested these steps internally and confirmed that you are able to

1. Install the Datacenter version of Reminders into Bitbucket server (the Reminders server and Datacenter artifacts are binary identical)
2. Obtain a DataCenter license for our Reminders app, and assign it to your Reminders installation. You can match the Reminders DataCenter license user count with your current active user count in Bitbucket Server.

If you require any support with converting your Reminders Server license to a Data Center license key, please let us know by creating a support ticket.

Try Reminders!